About ISAC

International School Alliance of China or ISAC is a non-governmental school alliance that specializes in Sino-Western education exchange. ISAC is in alliance with over 40 public universities, primary & secondary schools, as well as education bureaus in China; ISAC's mission is to introduce qualified and responsible international teachers into Chinese classrooms and assist them with a safe, smooth and trustworthy transition at their host universities and schools.

Founded in 2015 with the support of Ji'an Municipal Education Bureau, ISAC has established partnership with some of China's top universities including Fudan University in Shanghai, Zhejiang University in Hangzhou, Jiangxi University of Finance and Economics in Nanchang etc. We also work with multiple education bureaus to run foreigner teacher program in public primary, middle and high schools of each school district.

Background

With China's improving system of national education, Chinese students are able to receive better education in better conditions. In 2015, the University Alliance of the Silk Road (UASR), coordinated by the China's Xi'an Jiaotong University, was launched which brings together more than 130 universities on five continents. It aims to develop international cooperation among its members and promote the Belt and Road initiative in higher education.

ISAC was founded later that year in Hangzhou, one of the most foreigner-friendly cities in China, with a goal to help Chinese public universities and schools, especially those established institutions in a less-known cities, to bring in qualified and responsible international teachers. For the past few years, we have had success providing a platform for our partners to connect with teachers all over the world.

Who can benefit from it?

Whether you are currently teaching in China or in other countries, or if you want to be a teacher in China, you can always find useful information with ISAC. Please feel free to browse our information page and school page for more information on teaching in China and at one of our member school.
