Introduction (Short description of job role)	The Native Teacher is going to teach adult classes, from pre-intermediate to advanced levels. Schedules are normally comprise of afternoons and evenings classes during the week, where sometimes classes in the morning can happen. On Saturdays, the classes start at 8am. Whilst the institute provides an established course plan for every program and age group, the teacher is required to plan and prepare his/her lessons independently outside of the assigned classroom hours. They will be able to offer their own creativity while also being provided with lots of help and support in the form of course plans, materials and training sessions. Classes are one-on-one or small group classes which might typically have anywhere from 6 students in them, with some rare larger classes of 10. This gives teachers the chance to tailor lessons to the exact needs of the class and means they can spend time really getting to know their student and the objectives that they have when it comes to learning English.
